Our EES folks want to know if anyone within Enron was involved in Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania Tariff changes.
Please let me know what should I answer.
Thanks
Guillermo

Can you determine if anyone within Enron was involved in these proceedings? This tariff change could be significant and this is the first we've hard of it.
Please let me know.

Janine: Was anyone in regulatory involved with this? We found out this was coming last week at the CPA Shipper meeting. This is going to cause a curve shift which could have been minimized had we known it was coming. Thanks!

Josh,

Please make sure you are on Shirley's mailing list, I didn't see your name listed.

Thanks

Columbia's tariff filing to become effective on October 22, 2001, subject to an Administrative Law Judge Recommendation. This tariff filing includes several changes that may be important to suppliers, such as changes in Columbia's banking and balancing service, introduction of a new Flow Order Management Service, and a new Imbalance Trading Service.

The full text of Columbia's original tariff proposals, as filed with the PA Public Utility Commission on August 22, 2001, can be accessed at the following site:

Shippers serving aggregation pools on the Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania, Inc. system should carefully review Columbia's new Elective Balancing Service (proposed tariff pages 164 - 169) and choose one of the three balancing service options for each aggregation pool. Also, suppliers who have been designated as an authorized agent for non-aggregated customers may choose an elective balancing option on behalf of those customers. Columbia's current estimated rate for Option 1, Full Balancing Service, is as follows:

SGS, SDS Customers $0.20/Mcf
LDS, MLS Customers $0.10/Mcf

Please note that Columbia's interruptible banking and balancing service will no longer be available. The cost for the interruptible service ($0.1109/Mcf for SGS and SDS, and $0.0358 for LDS and MLS) will be removed from customers' distribution rates when the new Elective Balancing Services become effective.

Under the newly approved Elective Balancing Service (Rider EBS), customers or their authorized agents are given 20 days in which to elect their service option. Customers or their authorized agents who do not elect one of the three Elective Balancing Service options on or before November 12, 2001 will default to Option 1, Full Balancing Service. Columbia will post final rates for Rider EBS Option 1 by the close of business on November 15, 2001. If the final rates exceed the above estimated rates by more than 20%, customers or their authorized agents who have elected Option 1 may change their election by submitting a change to Columbia in writing by the close of business on November 20, 2001. Columbia will begin providing service under the elected option as of December 1, 2001.

A form for the election of Rider EBS options will be e-mailed to the "notices" contact person for each supplier that is active on the Columbia
