Subject: Request for Information

Jeff: I work in the International PR group in Houston, where I'm responsible for South America. As you might imagine, the California crisis is receiving substantial media coverage in the region. In particular, it's being used by opponents of deregulation to bolster their position. My colleagues also say that it's receiving the same play in India and elsewhere. In order to shed more light than heat on the subject and "arm" our people in Brazil with some useful information on the issue, I'm attempting to put together some key messages and Q&As. One obvious question is: What are Enron's business dealings with California? Both Rob Bradley and Miyung Buster mentioned you as the "expert", so I'm hoping you could provide with the answer to the above question. Regards, Keith
