Melissa Allen, formerly with Arthur Andersen and assigned to the Enron account, has taken over Beth Apollo's role for EEL. She reports to Fernley Dyson, as did Beth.

I was in the London office last week. As a result of some of my discussions, Mike Jordan asked that James Scribner make a visit to cover the operations pricing model and to discuss some issues around global counterparty database. Mike has suggested that James come to London during the first week in February, which sounds as if it will coincide with your trip. Please coordinate with James so that your agendas are in sync (in case of potential overlap) so that we don't convey a right hand/left hand lack of coordination. Since your agenda mentions GCP, there may some meetings that you are planning that would be appropriate for James to join. By copy of this memo, I am asking James to do the same with you. Thanks.

Subject: London Trip

Greetings Sally! Thank you for taking the time to attend our presentation, I truly hope you found it informative. I definitely have a better understanding of your concerns with Risk and we will work towards resolving some of them. Hopefully I can report some positive results at our next presentation.

I have a trip planned for London the week of Feb. 5. My initial topics include:

GCP - NG Several meetings scheduled with Brian Lindsey Hunter and Gail Hill to discuss User Acceptance Testing, Test Scripts, Resources and Schedules.
